THE PRESIDENT TO THE SENIOR

The message of the president to the segate. in defense, as he claims, of the executive pre-regative, is admitted and strongly written. But it does not fully meet the question at issue That the executive and senate are in leven lent of each other there are be no doubt. The sense, indeed, has not questioned the independence of the executive. But it has taken the position that it has a right to call for papera relating to public business on file in the public if The president has suspended many o'll crule from the discharge of their dates and des ignated other persons to succeed them Now the senate is called to act upon these new nominations, and it calls upon the president for the papers on file in the public offices, if thege are new appointees ought to be confirmed or no To the the president answers, in substance. that these papers, though filed in the public of fices, are his own property, that he need not have filed them had be not these to do so that he has a right to willd: aw the n if he pleases, and that he might even have destroyed them had be seen fit. In some cases he noted upon is not a rightful subject of inquiry by the senate

This answer, however, partly begs the question. The senate has not undertaken to call the president to account for the manner in which the executive discretion has been exercised. If the president has a mply removed certain of thats and appointed others because, for any reason within the exercise of his judgment as any so within the exercise of his judgment as we ulive, he has seen fit a new, the sound does not call upon him for a statement of the rots are of his action. But if there are any papers on tile in the public offices relating to such removals and appointments the sense claims the rght to call for them, hot indeed for the purpose of holding the president to accountabilis to it elf for his acts, but in order that the senate may have such information on the subject be fore it as the public of ices may contain At bottom of this dispute there is an in-ut flor, to removed during the continuance of out ion, he removed during the continuance of the tent for which they were appointed, solely for the purpose of putting in their places those in political affiliation with the appointing power and this declaration was immediately followed by a description of the official partisanship which d it not entitle to consideration those in whom it was "whithed" The president intimates that he has fallered to this declaration the sanate assumes that be her not Here was the grem of the dispute—here still is the real most punt To candid criticism i must appear certain that the president has in many instances re-moved officials before the close of their terms sciely for the jurp se of putting in their phase those in political an illation with the appointing But candor equally requires the stateand even with remarkable forbearance, so that, pies which must lead up to civil service reform

It was with some astonishment that I in medite and suppression it fact those well known contractors, Bays V Jeffers, had proposel to take in business of gleaning the streets off of the hands of the city, 'The fact that the men who built the famous "and springs" in Elevente, istreet, in front of Mr. Dekune's property, and china them "macudam," have had the an incity to ski to be entrusted with any "responsibility, is certainly worthy of remark. It is same into embruch the men is a land thoroused, who integred so as to get the words.
